Camp News

The season opened with a weekend at Elm River Campground. Fourteen rigs were in attendance. The weather was great. This was probably due to the fact that I was not there. Everything I am writing about this weekend comes from the notes of my dear cub reporter, Jim.

Everyone was glad that Winston and Bernice decided to reopen the campground after the devastating floods that nearly put them out of business. A hard working family and some very devoted friends helped to ready the campground for the season.

I would like to wish our friend Harley White a speedy recovery. We are all thinking of you and Brenda and you are in my prayers.

I am sad to report that I will not be attending the June campout either. I am going to Edmonton to babysit my granddaughter. So let's do some brainstorming to decide how to do this season's fundraising.
